

the MiL, Inc.

MICROBE INOTECH LABORATORIES, INC.

Privacy Policy:

Microbe Inotech Labs wants you to know how we collect, use and protect information about you.

What Information is collected?

Names, Addresses, Phone Numbers, and Email addresses are collected and stored in a database.

This information is not sold or provided to anyone.

How do we use this information?

We use this information as a way to contact you, provide you additional information, and electronic mailings.

If you choose to opt out of electronic mail just respond using the link to unsubscribe and you will no longer get the mailings we send to you that are general in nature. Specific information regarding your lab results, or tests will still be sent to you unless you request another for of communication.

Lab Results are confidential to you. We will not share those results with anyone. Your results are yours and you may share those results. We do ask that when sharing results to please redact staff names on those reports for the protection of the staff members. We do feel that it is appropriate that the Microbe Inotech Labs name remain to provide those you are sharing the information with the ability to know who the lab service provider is and we will stand behind the results of the lab tests performed and the results we have obtained from the testing services. We will only validate the information published as being correct or as being tampered with. If you do choose to publish the results please inform us of that fact so that we can make sure to be prepared for the increase in calls that may result.